

IMTA ALUMS COMING TO YOUR TV/PC/DEVICES IN THE 2017-18 SEASON

IMTA Press Release
September 22, 2017

Each year as the fall television season begins, it is gratifying to take a look at the IMTA alumni who extend their résumés with work on “television.” With advances in technology, nowadays “television” or “TV” encompasses more than just the flat screen on the family room wall; it includes smartphones, tablets and PCs. “TV” can be viewed anywhere, anytime on any mobile device. And it is no longer only networks and cable channels producing programming and movies, but streaming services such as Netflix and Hulu have their own line-up of original shows and films. Amazon and YouTube offer original programming and serve as hosts for channels such as PixL and Reelz. YouTube and Vimeo serve as platforms for independent filmmakers and writers to release original series and movies. All of these outlets provide unlimited possibilities for IMTA alumni to appear on “the small screen.”

Below are just a few of the IMTA alumni working on network, cable or web series, appearing on returning or new series in regular or recurring roles, announced guest-starring appearances, and lead or supporting roles in TV movies and mini-series. Our apologies for any names missing. IMTA is equally proud of all of the alumni working in the entertainment industry and we try to keep track of as many as we can. Please let us know of castings, guest appearances and other successes of IMTA alums.

IMTA alum Amy Acker stars in the new FOX series “The Gifted,” premiering October 2. The action-adventure family drama from Marvel tells the story of a suburban couple whose ordinary lives are rocked by the sudden discovery that their children possess mutant powers.
